On 7 and 8 November 2017 the Centre for Frugal Innovation in Africa organizes an international academic conference on Frugal Innovation for Sustainable Global Development. During the conference a broad range of paper presentations and panel sessions will take place wherein Frugal Innovation will be discussed as a means to reach the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The conference will also be used to further develop ideas for the Frugal Innovation research agenda.

Please find more information on the conference on www.cfia.nl.

Are you a junior researcher or PhD candidate working on Frugal Innovation?

Join our Early Career Day!

While we encourage both junior and more experienced academics to visit our Conference, we organize a special event for those in the beginning phases of their promising academic careers. Frugal innovation is quite a new field of study, which may mean that it can be difficult to find peers with whom to discuss and exchange knowledge. CFIA organizes a day full with workshops and discussion to do exactly that. Come to Leiden and meet fellow researchers working on this newly established field of research.

CFIA invites the leading academics of the future to our Early Career Day!
